NON-POISONOUS DISINFECTANT, The coal tar derivatives CARBOLIC and CRESYLIC Acids, have been known for, many years as the most powerful and generally useful disinfectants, but their effective use is restricted by their insolubility in water at ordinary temperatures, and their caustic and poisonous action. In DAKIN BROTHERS' SOLUBLE CRESOL these Acids are combined in a soluble and noncorresive form.

For flushing drains, latrines, washing floors &c., I part in 1,000; or a table-spoonful in a large bucketful of water, is sufficient to prevent putrefection and destroy the centagious matter of Typhoid, Small-pox, Diptheria, Cholora, &c. A weak solution sprinkled on the floor will drive away flies and mosquitoes.

Used in the daily bath in the proportion of a table-spoonful to a large tub of water it is very refreshing; it has a highly beneficial effect on the health and prevents contagion. .

HONGKONG, FEBRUARY 25TH, 1889.

THE promulgation of the constitution places Japan in the rank of countries possessing re-Douglas S. S. Co. Scottish Oriental S. S. Co. | presentative government. Only twenty-one years have elapsed since the revolution, by which the Shogun was declared a usurper and the Mikado restored to the exercise of the powers appertaining to the rank of Emperor. His Majesty was then only sixteen years of age, and unable by reason of The MAPS and PLANS have been mostly his youth to take any active part in the direction of affairs except as the mouthpiece of his advisers. Even at that time, however, the development of popular government was in contemplation, as is shown by the following passage in the Imperial oath sworn by the Mikado :- "We swear that the Government shall be conducted in accordance with public opinion and popular deliberation.' Ten years had then elapsed since Japan had entered into treaty relations with foreign powers; and the foreign element had thus been introduced into Japanese political affairs. The author of the article on Japan in A full Chronology of remarkable events since the new edition of the Encyclopædia Britannice says that " by some writers undue stress has been laid upon this fact, as if the advent of Western nations had been the main cause of the downfall of the Tokugawa shire, from London, left Singapore on Friday Scales of Commissions and Charges adopted by supremacy. From an attentive perusal, however, of native works treating of political matters for some time previous, it would appear that such was not the case. The decay of the Shogunate had gradually been going on for years back; the whole system was tottering having commercial or political relations with the to its fall, and it is not improbable that even on leave next month Major-General Gordon will Countries embraced within the scope of the in the total absence of foreigners the revolution would have occurred exactly as it did.' A revolution of some kind would no doubt have occurred, but if the foreign element had little effect in determining the restoration of the Mikado it has been the source from which Japan has drawn all her inspiration for the great social and political advancement she has since made. Almost immediately after the restoration an assembly was convened of the representatives of the feudal clans, which has been called the first Japaness parliament, but it possessed no elective element, and as a channel for the expression of popular Junta da Fazenda to devote $1,000 for the opinion it proved a complete failure. Feudalism having been swept away, a Senate was established, consisting of the officers of the provincial governments. This body had power to discuss laws, and was the first step towards representative government, for the officials who composed it did really to a certain Ordinance for the naturalization of Elias Isaac have done in England, and, finally, retires to extent represent the people of their respective districts and were not exclusively repre. ing Ordinances Nos. 24, 26, and 28 of 1888 re- Peking have in too many cases been dispersed sentative of a class. We learn that Mr. Samuel Brown, M.I.C.E. Government Engineer in Cyprus, has been apnointed to succeed the Hon. J. M. Price as Survoyor-General of Hongkong, Mr. Brown has been rather less than nine years in the Colonial Service, but, as will be seen by the following note from the "Colonial Office List," he has been engaged on some important public works, and is no doubt thoroughly qualified for the highly responsible position to which he has been nominated :- "Acted as assistant engineer at Swansca, and as resident engineer had charge of the works of Watchet harbour and afterwards of the central section of the Turin and Savona Railway; subsequently carried out works for the improvement of the harbour of King's Lynn and the outfall of the river Ouse. From 1870 to 1879 engaged on the Alexandria harbour contract, having charge of the construction of the breakwater, mole, iron jetties, and quays. Appointed Government engineer, Cy prns, June, 1880." Mr. Brown is expected to arrive in Hongkong in May next.

The Chinese Times states that Mr. Church's reports on the silver mines of Mongolia are very encouraging. He has pushed the work with great energy, and is now taking out of the principal mine large quantities of good silver-lead (galena) ore. A small concentrating mill has just been started to crash and separate the ora; and a larger mill is now being erected. The pumping and hoisting machinery have been working for nine months, and nothing is needed to good, and her singing was also satisfactory. Ten foreigners, six of whom have tely arrived, and 200 natives are now employed at these mines. Mr. Church has had to contend against extraordinary difficulties in prosecuting his work in that burren and inhospitable part of Mongolia, but he has fully sustained his reputation for energy and thoroughness, and is now rapidly approaching complete success. He has throughout had the support and confidence of the Viceroy, who is much pleased at the prospect of soon having important silver-producing mine working successfully in his jurisdiction after the most approved Western methods.

With reference to the opposition lately developed to the extension of the railway to Tungchow, the Chinese Times says;-The official opposition to the Tientsin-Tungchow (or Peking) Bailway is now well ascertained to have a basis, although many diverse elements were also compounded in it. and passage boat guilds, the carriers, mule horse, and donkey owners, also inn-keepers and various local interests were quietly banding togother to resist the iron road, and the Government would not dare to act, unless under very great urgency, against the combined mulcon tents. The opposition to the extension of the railway appears to proceed from a combination of the Tutors of the Emperor and a wellknown member of the Tsung-li Yamen, whose daughter recently married into the oldest family in China. They have gained over the Fift Prince, "Tun, the oldest surviving son of the Emperor Tao Kang, a man who affects austerity of life and is reputed poor. Such mon, when theypossess courage, are very influential in China, and both the Sixth Prince, who is very rich, and the Seventh, who would probably like to be so, are accustomed to cower under the lash of their somewhat free-spoken and not over-temperate elder The Censors have also been largely annoxed. The enamel work of Peking is for the most part (says the Chinese Times) in vulgar hands. but as the tints of the pastes are very fine, and surpass those produced in Japan, there would be a great and fine trade opened to foreigners if the manipulation could be improved. Most of the ware now produced is of commonplace and even ignoble design, and without finish. The old pieces of Kien Lung's time were, on the contrary, as regards colour, design, solidity, and finish irreprosehable. The tawdry, shining, trampery work now often made for export is pitiable, and shows debe appointed Acting Captain Superintendent of Police, and Major Dempster Acting Superinbasement. At present most of the Peking sur plies of old China, faience, and objects of art are drawn from Shensi and Shansi, but, as is becoming evident, the supply will not last much longer and it is desirable that some other provinces should be induced to part with their treasures. Shantung has been pretty well exploited; Chihli, Peking excepted, is not supposed, to be artistically rich; in Honsa the store of beautifu things must have been sadly diminished by the floods which devastated the most wealthy districts: in Sechuan, Kneichow, and Kansuh war and rebellions have made great destructions, although Cheng-tu ought to repay exploration. 1.-To receive the report of Finance Committee, and in Kinngsu, Kinngsi, Chekinng, Hunau Hupei, Anhui, which, like the two Kwangs much in the rebellions and interrecine wars, the stores left do not amount much. > IOLANTHE" AT THE THEATRE ROYAL.The Hongkong Choral Society repeated their erformance of Gilbertand Sullivan's Opera " Iolanthe" at the Theatre Royal, on Saturday evening, to a crowded house. Thepiece on the whole went very well, and the audience was evidently an appreciative and a friendly one. There were one or two changes in the cast that played the opera on the previous occasion. One of the most important was in that of the title rôle, which was previously filled by Miss Sangster, but which on this occasion was taken by Miss W Hazeland, who, it will be remembered, played so creditably as Leila, one of the fairies in the former productions. That character Miss Hazeland represented so well that we predicted she would fill a larger part to good advantage when occasion offered. Miss Sangstor boing absent from the Colony, opportunity occurred, and we were not disappointed. In certain small points, Miss Hazeland was not perfect, but these imperfections would certainly disappear when she had played the part a few more times. Her impersonation, as it was on the short notice, left very little to be desired. Her soting throughout was best effort was the rendering of "He loves" in the second act, which was a thoroughly artistic erformance from every point of view, and the encore she received at the conclusion was thoroughly well deserved. With a little more training Miss Hazeland will; if she goes on as well as her first performance promises, become one of the most prominent and able members of the Society. Miss Stopani as the Queen, was again the leading personage of the piece. Her fine voice was heard to advantage in the vecal parts that fell to her and her singing of "Oh foolish fay" was loudly redemanded. sirs. As Phyllis, Miss Withers again succeed. ed through sheer hard work and determination. The part is hardly as suitable a one as might be Mr. Benedik's Melapi selected for her, and the greater credit is therefore due to her that she gives such a good representation as she does. Her singing, however, thoroughly redeems any minor defects of her impersonation, and her performance of character stands forth as one of the best in the whole piece. Mr. Lightwood, as the Lord Chancellor, was not wholly satisfactory. There were faults to be noted in his performance of the character on the first night and these unfortunately have not disappeared. Mr. Lightwood is too elever an actor not to give a very passable representation of any part he assumes and therefore as a great deal is expected of him his impersonation of the chief male character of the piece is all the more disappointing. Mr. Greig has improved in his acting. as Lord Tolloller, but the same cannot be said of his singing. On Saturday night he was decidedly disappointing, his notes being almost every song he attempted. Of Mr. Grace's performance as Strephon it is impossible to speak too highly. Mr. Grace's voice improves on acquaintance, and his acting is as good as ever. His song in the second act was again reason it was not encored. Why, it would be difficult to tell, considering that so many inferior efforts were so recognised. Mr. Laing again gave a good personation of Trooper Willis, his acting and singing being marked by careful attention to the smallest detail. choruses, the mainstay on former occasions, were hardly so good on Saturday night. That of the peers was certainly good, indeed as well nigh perfect as could be imagined, but the fairles suffered from lack of numbers and voice power. The dresses, which we may mention were supplied by Messrs. Halt and Holtz, the mounting of the piece and the scenery would have been a credit to even a professional performance, and although as alluded to there are certain points which require attention the Society have every reason to

NOW ON SALE IMPERIAL QUARTO. NGLISH AND CHINES DICTIONARY... WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN

PRONUNCIATION. An Angle-Chinese Dictionary, published at Daily Press Office, Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both following facts are submitted for consideration :--Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various appli-cations and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto pub-

For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in Chins, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable occasion-
